Be the CHANGE

Change Begins Here!

You've laid the foundation for your career; you've gained some professional experience; you've learned from your leaders and mentors; you want more for yourself and your family. Earning an advanced degree will not only provide you with more career opportunities, but it will give you the credibility and knowledge to change the industry.

The College of Education, Criminal Justice, Human Services, and Information Technology (CECH) can open doors of opportunity in several fields of study and help you achieve your goals.

You will learn from evidence-based research with nationally recognized faculty, committed to advancing your skills and expertise, while taking you beyond the classroom to improve outcomes for the communities we all serve. Your graduate program will empower you to develop innovative plans and ideas for making your workplace run more efficiently and effectively.

Academic Programs to Support your Interests and Career Goals

With two master degree options (onsite and online), a doctoral program and three graduate certificates, you're sure to find the right program for you in the School of Criminal Justice. Whether you are striving to take your career to a new level or seeking a career change, the unique opportunities that define our School of Criminal Justice await you.

Student-Centered Community

Join us, and you'll find yourself a part of a community where learning and teaching blend seamlessly with research and practice in an organization making a difference in the Greater Cincinnati area and beyond. Our faculty and staff are committed to helping you achieve your educational goals, explore new opportunities, and discover research interests.

Community is at the heart of all we do.
It's who we are.

Be Bold

A graduate degree from the University of Cincinnati can be just the credential that makes you stand out. Whether you want to enhance your skills or expand your expertise, UC offers many ways to use your intellect to follow your passion.

From our nationally ranked programs to our renowned faculty, CECH can offer you an educational experience that goes beyond the classroom. Our graduate programs incorporate experiential learning and research opportunities, many of which can provide funding with tuition costs.

In the School of Criminal Justice, our goal is to motivate students to achieve new intellectual levels and to maximize their opportunities for success within and beyond the graduate program. We want our students to play an integral role in shaping the future of criminal justice research and education.

Master's Programs

Our Master of Science in Criminal Justice degree can be completed on-campus or 100% online, making it flexible enough to meet the needs of full-time graduate students or working professionals. The program consists of 30 credit hours and can be completed within one year of full-time study; however, part-time options are also available for the online program. Our coursework approaches the study of crime and criminal justice from an interdisciplinary perspective, drawing insights from sociology, law, public administration, and criminal justice. You will learn to generate, use, and critically examine research that you can use to teach in the classroom, obtain a leadership position, or change and facilitate current policies, methods, and practices in the field of criminal justice.

Doctoral Programs

Our Doctor of Philosophy in Criminal Justice program develops social scientists that have the ability to consume, transmit, and independently produce research knowledge on crime and criminal justice. Our goal is to ensure that all of our graduates receive rigorous training to prepare them for careers in academia and/or agency-based research. Through electives and dissertation research, students have the flexibility to develop expertise consistent with their unique interests.
