Curriculum and Instruction

Curriculum development is vital to any learning institution. Merging instruction with the proper curriculum helps to deliver relevant and responsive curriculums to classroom and corporate learning settings.

The Master of Education in Curriculum and Instruction (C&I) develops educational leaders for a variety of settings. Our program prepares educators to generate, use, and critically examine research in learning and teaching in order to enhance educational practices for learners in formal and informal educational settings across the age span.

Be EXPERIENCED

Our Curriculum and Instruction graduate degree prepares students to become licensed teachers in subject matters for Middle Childhood or Secondary Education students, while also preparing them to deliver instruction properly and ensure the efficacy of curriculums for their classrooms. Students in the C&I program can expect to complete an internship to gain hands-on experience that can be used in the classroom.

“ The professors in the Curriculum and Instruction program were not only approachable, but also friendly! I got an early sense that the professors genuinely cared about your success in this program. ” – Cody Stoll
